MEMPHIS
UNIVERSITY
جامعة ممفيس

THE* GATE TO PREMIUM EDUCATION

School of Medicine

School of Medicine

About the School

The School of Medicine at Memphis University is a forward-looking medical school dedicated to preparing ethical, innovative, and globally competent physicians through a modern hybrid model of education and exclusive international partnerships.

Prof. Ahmed Saafan
Dean, School of Medicine

Welcome Message from the Dean

At the School of Medicine – Memphis University, we empower future physicians to lead, innovate, and transform healthcare. Through our progressive hybrid education model and strong global partnerships, we prepare our students to excel locally and compete internationally.

Our Educational Approach

The School of Medicine offers a rigorous and internationally aligned medical education designed to prepare students for real-world healthcare challenges.

Key Features:

- Curriculum aligned with international medical education standards

- Strong focus on evidence-based practice, research, and professional ethics

- Teaching delivered by distinguished faculty

- Clinical training through partnerships with leading local hospitals

What Makes Memphis Unique

- Hybrid Learning Model

  - Blended on-campus and online learning
  - Flexible, engaging, and technology-driven education

- Competency-Based Curriculum

  - Fully aligned with NARS 2017 standards
  - Focus on clinical competence, research skills, professionalism, and lifelong learning

- Community-Oriented Medical Training

  - Emphasis on public health, community engagement, and service learning
  - Preparing students to address real national and regional health challenges

- Global Faculty Experience

  - Access to highly qualified local academics and visiting international professors
  - Exposure to diverse medical perspectives and practices

- Accredited & Student-Centered Environment

  - Commitment to national and international accreditation standards
  - Supportive learning environment focused on student success and wellbeing

VISION

- To be a leading medical school in Egypt and the region, producing patient-centered physicians and researchers who advance healthcare locally and globally.

MISSION

The School of Medicine is committed to:

- Graduating competent, ethical physicians dedicated to continuous learning and research - Addressing national and regional health priorities through education and community engagement

- Building strong partnerships with leading global institutions

- Supporting innovation, leadership, and healthcare delivery in underserved communities

Strategic Goals

- Deliver a curriculum aligned with NARS 2017 and international quality benchmarks

- Create a dynamic learning environment that promotes student engagement and innovation

- Develop faculty excellence through training, leadership development, and recruitment

- Promote advanced scientific research and modern postgraduate studies

- Strengthen community and international partnerships for global collaboration

- Ensure administrative excellence, quality assurance, and continuous improvement

Career Opportunities

Graduates of the School of Medicine at Memphis University are well-prepared for diverse career paths, including:

- Clinical practice in hospitals and healthcare centers locally and internationally.

- Academic and research careers in universities and medical research institutions.

- Public health and community medicine roles in governmental and non-governmental organizations.

- Postgraduate and board certification programs across medical specialties.

- Leadership and management roles in healthcare administration and international health organizations.